Gathering Of Top Officials
'Real Peace Conference
Of Europe'

LONDON, June 14—Prime Minister Churchill confirmed in common today that he would meet with President Truman and Premier Stalin before July 26, and informed quarters guessed the big three leaders would confer in Berlin.

Churchill declined to comment on rumors that the occupied Nazi capital had been chosen for the meeting place or that the date had been fixed for some time between July 5 and 16.

But he revealed that he would be accompanied by laborite leader Clement Attlee, former deputy prime minister in the coalition cabinet and now Churchill's chief opponent in the current general election campaign.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Churchill's companion at the previous big three meetings was still incapacitated by illness. Churchill paid tribute to Eden's past assistance and expressed regret at his inability to attend the conference.

The prime minister appeared optimistic over the forthcoming meeting, the first big three session since the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference at Yalta last February.

"I am glad to report improvement in the relations of the great Allies ever since the fighting has stopped," he said.

He remarked that common hatred of the enemy was not a sufficient bond to hold allies together after the fighting ceased.

Churchill said relations with Russia "have undergone marked improvement in the last week or so because one difficult matter connected with Poland has already been settled."

WASHINGTON, June 14—The impending meeting of the big three will map Europe's future for many years to come, authoritative sources indicated today.

A White House source said that for all practical purposes President Truman's imminent conference with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Soviet Premier Josef Stalin will be "the real peace conference of Europe."

"The big three," he asserted, "will chart the general outlines of the European peace."

It was evident here that the function of any subsequent full-dress European peace conference would be to ratify, probably with

Germans To Learn To Grow Food

New Administrator Of Rhine
Says Reich Will Become Agricultural Country

BONN, GERMANY, June 14—Stripped of heavy industry and war-making capacity, the future Germany will be an agricultural country, Dr. Hans Fuchs, newly appointed civilian administrator of the Rhine province, said today.

Fuchs, 70 years old and lifelong member of the Catholic center party, was oberpraesident or chief civilian executive of Rhine province from 1922 until Adolf Hitler came to power. He quit then.

Allied authorities found him living in retirement in Coblenz and asked him to take the same job again. Thus he heads the first large German civil administration over an area of 14,000 square miles with a pre-war population of 11,000,000.

In an interview with a United Press correspondent, Fuchs said the Germans faced a dark future. "I am afraid the food situation will get more and more critical, particularly in the big cities of the Rhineland and Ruhr," he said.

"Too many people keep going home to the cities, and that only aggravates the food situation. In my belief many of Germany's larger ruined cities will be rebuilt on a smaller scale."

"Germany's industry is largely destroyed, factories gone and there will be no houses for workers or industry to employ them. Germany will have to be largely an agricultural country. Our one hope for the future is that the coal mining in the Ruhr and Cologne area is relatively undamaged."

"The Germans will have to learn to fend for themselves. They will have to rebuild their houses, and grow their own food. The first and most urgent task will be to repair the houses which are not damaged too badly. We will have to take over former army barracks and convert them into apartments for bombed-out families."

"Every German in the cities will have to grow vegetables or face starvation."

The urgent task at hand is to get rid of all Nazi influences in his area, Fuchs said. He admitted that because of an acute shortage of trained officials he was being obliged to employ some former Nazi party members.

He said there were no signs of any Nazi underground trying to sabotage and new Allied-controlled civilian administrations.

Fuchs said he accepted the job

HOUSE MAY CUT
OPA EXTENSION TO SIX MONTHS

WASHINGTON, June 14—The house will cut in half the one-year extension of the price control act voted by the senate, Rep. Jesse Wolcott, R., Mich., predicted today.

Wolcott, ranking minority member of the house banking committee now considering the OPA extension bill, said he "is reasonably certain" the house will limit extension to six months.

"We can get some Democratic votes to cut it to six months and I don't think we will lose many Republicans," Wolcott said. "The six months limit is needed to assure us of a review then of the price control situation."

Meantime opposing house blocs were marshalling their forces for a fight on the senate "farm profits" amendment which President Truman yesterday asked the house to strike from the act.

The amendment, introduced by Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry, R., Neb., would outlaw price ceilings which failed to give the farmer a reasonable margin of profit on agricultural commodities, based on production costs.

Spokesman for the nation's three largest farm organizations—the Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers' Union and the National Grange—have branded the amendment inflationary and unworkable.

Polish Unity Government
To Be Formed At Moscow
With Mikolajczyk Premier

LONDON, June 14—The Moscow conference on Poland probably will set up a new unity government with Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the London delegation as premier, a dispatch from the Soviet capital said today.

Informed sources reported that Mikolajczyk, a former premier of the Polish exile government in London, and Jan Stanczyk, another former member of the London cabinet, will fly to Moscow within three days, probably tomorrow.

Stanczyk told the British Press Association that the third member of the London delegation, Julian Zakowski, still was considering the invitation despite the exile government's announcement yesterday that he had rejected it.

Original plans called for the conference to begin tomorrow with Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, American Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr present.

Representatives of the Soviet-supported Polish provisional government, headed by President Boleslaw Beirut of the Polish national council, arrived in Moscow yesterday and began preliminary talks.

Five other Polish leaders from within Poland were due in the Soviet capital momentarily.

Informed sources in London said Mikolajczyk would go to the conference prepared to urge formation of a provisional government of national unity in which no one party has a majority.

They said he would not agree to participate in a government controlled by Communists because he believed a free election would be impossible under those conditions. Mikolajczyk also was expected to ask for withdrawal of Russian occupation forces from Poland as a prerequisite to holding free elections.

If these circumstances are met, Mikolajczyk supporters said, an election may be held within six months. The delay would provide time for the return home of thousands of Polish war prisoners, slave workers and expatriates.

Polish moderates suggested two other possible delegates from London for the Moscow conference should Zakowski persist in his purported decision not to attend.

They were Prof. Stanislaw Grabowski, chairman of the Polish council in London, and M. Popiel, chairman of the Christian labor party.

TRIESTE, June 14—Quiet and order returned to the disputed Trieste area today following the withdrawal of the last of Marshal Tito's Yugoslav forces across the Yugoslav border.

A final flare-up occurred when unorganized bands roamed the streets ripping Italian flags from window ledges but the flags reappeared later and there were no more demonstrations.

Authorities said both British and Yugoslav soldiers maintained a cold orderly reserve until withdrawal was completed. British tanks still stood at strategic spots with crews ready to act "on 10-minute notice." A small fleet of British ships remained in the harbor.

Civilians stared in open hostility at the few Yugoslavs remaining in Trieste under agreement. Stories of looting by Tito's men, rather than political reasons, appeared to have swung sentiment against Tito.

In other respects Trieste appears to be a normal, peacetime city with public services functioning. However, long queues stand for hours at food markets trying to get a share of the scanty food supply.

San Francisco Conference
May Continue Until June 25

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14—The "little" United Nations, defeated in their fight to "soften" the Yalta voting formula, prepared today for a final battle against big five veto power over amendments to the world charter.

That issue and several odds and ends of the proposed charter which seemed to defy solution caused United Nations conference delegates to set June 23 unofficially as the earliest possible date of adjournment.

No official closing date has been set since the earlier target of June 6 was missed. The aim had been toward next Wednesday. But officials conceded that it will be physically impossible to complete the work before a week from next Saturday, and possibly not until June 25.

The structure of the new league is virtually complete except for a few holes here and there.

FINAL TEST DUE

House May Not Vote On Veto
Until Friday; Senate
Overrides Lausche

COLUMBUS, June 14—Opponents and supporters of the Daniels-Cramer bill today mustered their strength for the final test on the issue of school finances on the floor of the house of representatives tomorrow.

The senate yesterday dealt Gov. Frank J. Lausche another crushing legislative defeat—his second in as many weeks—when it ignored his plea for a compromise and voted 21-10 to re-pass the school bill over his veto.

Last week the Republican-dominated legislature over-rode his veto of the Addison bill to set up a four-year statute of limitations on delinquent sales tax assessments.

The school bill immediately was sent to the house but leaders there decided to delay action on the veto until Friday morning. Instead, they said they would adhere to their original plan to take up the $71,731,488 capital improvements bill today.

Rep. William L. Manahan, R., Defiance, who sponsored the bill in the house, opposed the plan to bring it up Friday. He said it either should have been heard today or held over until next week because many Republicans believed that, given another two

U. S. Escaped Bombing
By Six Months, Ordnance
Intelligence Experts Say

PARIS, June 14—If the European war had lasted another six months, Germany might have bombarded New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Boston with giant rocket bombs.

Ordnance intelligence experts attached to supreme headquarters said German scientists were within a half year of perfecting the mass production of rocket bombs capable of pin-point bombing at a range of 3,000 miles.

The Allied experts based their statement on the results of a month-long survey of a huge rocket assembly plant 800 feet under the Kohnstein mountains near Nordhausen in Germany.

Blueprints for the long-range rockets were found and German scientists said they were prepared to turn out the missiles in sufficient numbers to neutralize American air superiority.

Maj. William J. Bromley of Grants Pass, Ore., said the proposed rockets obviously were intended to subject American east coast cities to the same robot-bombing ordeal London suffered beginning last Summer.

The Germans smashed the enemy experimental plant at Peenemuende.

The Germans might have begun their bombardments of the United States even before the end of the European war had it not been for an RAF raid that smashed the enemy experimental plant at Peenemuende.

"That raid was a life-saver for us," Bromley said. "It set the German scientists back just about six months in their experiments. They told me it caused great damage to their installations and killed 800 of their foremost authorities."

Bromley did not describe the long-range rockets, but the V-2 type used against Britain traveled through the stratosphere at a speed faster than sound and carried a ton of explosives in the nose.

He said the German scientists believed that, given another two

48TH ANNUAL
OBSERVED HERE

Flags were being displayed from homes and public buildings and in front of business houses today as Circleville and the rest of the nation commemorated Flag Day. No other special observance was planned.

June 14 became known traditionally as Flag Day because it was that date in 1777 that the flag was adopted by the Continental Congress. It was not at that time, however, that the day became recognized with any particular significance. In 1897 the New York schools recognized the day as one for special commemoration. It has never been made a national holiday but it is annually proclaimed by the governors of all the states as the day for the display of the Stars and Stripes everywhere in the nation.

GEN. MARSHALL
CHIEF OF STAFF

WASHINGTON, June 14—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson said today that Gen. George C. Marshall will remain as Army chief of staff.

Stimson said emphatically that Marshall will not resign or retire now that the war with Germany is over.

Stimson confirmed reports from overseas that the Third and Seventh U. S. armies have been designated as the European force of occupation in place of the 15th army, previously designated for that assignment.

He did not reveal the new assignment of the 15th army.

He said Gen. George S. Patton will return shortly to his command of the Third army in Europe and Gen. Mark W. Clark to his command of American forces in the Mediterranean.

Air Offensive Goes Into
Ninth Straight Day;
Suzuki To Remain

BULLETIN
SAN FRANCISCO, June 14—Tokyo today admitted the fall of the oil-rich island of Tarakan to invading Australian and Netherlands troops.

By United Press
Allied forces broke most of the last Japanese defense line on Okinawa, and pushed into Brunei city on Borneo today.

Radio Tokyo warned the Japanese people that American forces in the Pacific appeared to be preparing for a new offensive, but confessed it did not know whether they would strike at Japan or occupied China.

The American air offensive against the enemy homeland went into its ninth straight day. Tokyo said American B-24 liberators appeared over the Tokyo-Yokohama area today for the first time, harbingers of heavier air blows yet to come.

On Okinawa, American 10th army forces herded the last 10,000-odd Japanese survivors into a 13-square-mile pocket atop bitterly-defended Yaeju-Dake escarpment. One American column was within three miles of the southern tip of the island.

Japanese Premier Kantaro Suzuki told the Tokyo Press that he would not resign if Okinawa fell. He said he was "as determined as ever to carry on my job to tide over this national crisis." He also gave his formula for dealing with invaders of the Japanese homeland:

"We have only to smash the enemy seaborne force while at sea. When he comes to the shore, strike him right there. When he lands, destroy him on land. That's all."

The American doughboys and Marines captured the northeastern, southeastern and western forces of the plateau and poured shells and bombs into the enemy forces trapped against the sea.

The Japanese, though steadily giving ground, fought back so savagely that supplies had to be brought up to American vanguards on tanks or dropped by parachute.

The only other enemy pocket on the island, on the south shore of Naha harbor, finally was smashed yesterday after a nine-day battle in which 3,500 Japanese were slain.

Japanese dead on Okinawa rose to 71,203 for the 74-day campaign, an average of nearly 1,000 slain

FAGS DISPLAYED
IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 14—Popular brand cigarettes were displayed openly on many retail counters in the New York area for the first time in many months, and tobaccoists said today there would probably be an easing of the nationwide shortage soon.

Retailers reported almost normal deliveries from five big brands, but spokesmen for the manufacturers said there may still be some hoarding by dealers because of the widespread black market. However, they said because of lessened military demands the cigarette situation will probably be normal by next January.

Lucky Strike was reported making 68 per cent of normal distribution, based on 1943 figures. This was 16 per cent more than last month.

Eighty-five per cent of the normal Chesterfield production is now being distributed by the manufacturer.

Other figures showed: Old Golds—98 per cent of normal distribution going to retailers; Philip Morris—75 per cent of normal distribution, 10 per cent over May; Camels—50 per cent of normal distribution, 10 per cent over May.

daily. American dead, wounded and missing were believed to total more than 40,000.

Radio Tokyo said the Americans already had in use or under construction 10 airfields on Okinawa and adjacent Ie. Taking off from the fields, more than 50 corsairs dropped 12 tons of bombs and rockets on Japanese suicide-plane bases on Kyushu Tuesday.

Two liberators, teammates of the flying fortresses in the aerial destruction of Germany, appeared over the Tokyo-Yokohama area at 11:30 a. m. today, Tokyo said. The broadcast claimed that both were shot by anti-aircraft guns.

Another Tokyo broadcast heard in London said the first flights of flying fortresses and liberators from Europe had reached the Philippines.

Australian troops of the famed "fighting ninth" division drove into the outskirts of Brunei, capital of the Borneo sultanate of the same name, after an amphibious landing on the shores of Brunei river east of the city.

Another Australian column captured Brunei airstrip and rolled on upopposed within two miles north of Brunei in an eight-mile advance along the Broekton-Brunei road.

Field reports said the Japanese already had abandoned Brunei. The city probably will fall within the next 24 hours.

'FAT' LOBBYISTS MAY LOSE FIGHT

Tariff Cuts Expected To Be Approved By Senate Despite Opposition

WASHINGTON, June 14—"Five fat lobbyists" parked outside the senate door with "their tongues hanging out" were expected to lose their fight today against new tariff cuts.

The lobbyists—"sleek" men, with "round bottoms and round heads"—are reportedly seeking to prevent the senate from giving the President 50 per cent additional tariff-cutting authority in the pending reciprocal trade agreements extension bill.

Chairman Walter F. George, D., Ga., of the senate finance committee told reporters late yesterday that the authority, stripped from the bill by a one-vote committee majority, would be reinstated when the senate votes on the issue.

He said the vote would probably come late this afternoon. He predicted proponents would pick up more Republican votes than they would lose Democratic votes.

This despite the lobbyists. They were brought into the picture during senate yesterday by indignant Sen. Charles W. Tobey, R., N. H.

Tobey charged angrily that the "fat" lobbyists were calling senators out one by one and "putting the screws on" to get them to vote against the trade agreements program.

"There's some nose-counting going on here," Tobey shouted, banging on his desk, "by five fat lobbyists who are sitting out there at the senate door buttonholing senators and counting names and putting the screws on to get senators to vote against this bill."

"I say they can go straight to—you know where they can go!" Tobey told reporters in an interview immediately afterward that "a Republican leader on the floor is sitting out there with them, with a list, calling senators aside and putting on the pressure."

He refused to identify the Republican leader, although he said he "told him this to his face the other day but it didn't do any good."

The lobbyists, he said, represented interests "bitterly opposed to the trade agreements program."

"They're fat, sleek, with round bottoms and round heads," Tobey said. "Here we are working our best to use our God-given powers of thought on this issue, and this sinister influence is out there right at the door of the senate. They want to go back to the old days of the Smoot-Hawley tariff. They're sighing for it, their tongues are hanging out for it."

Tobey said the Republican party "hasn't learned much."

"We're never going to come back to power unless we stop opposing everything and sometimes support something which is for the good of all the people of the country," he said.

ably will be absent Friday.

Few legislators believed there was more than "an outside chance" that the veto would be sustained although Rep. Walter H. Tarr, R., Hamilton, claimed there had been a "considerable" shift of sentiment since the bill originally passed the house 105-20.

Minority Leader Robert L. Moulton, D., Crawford, who led the fight against the bill in the house, believed he had "a fighting chance" to pick up the additional 23 votes which would be needed to sustain the veto. Supporters of the bill need 82 votes.

Rep. John J. Carney, D., Cuyahoga, agreed with Majority Leader Robert R. Shaw, R., Franklin, however, that the bill would be re-passed overwhelmingly. He predicted that 50 per cent of the house Democrats would vote to override their governor's veto.

Twenty-six Democrats joined the Republican majority in voting for the bill originally.

Sen. Albert A. Daniels, R., of Greenfield, co-author of the bill, spearheaded the fight to override the governor's veto. He said the four reasons given by Lausche for his veto were a "smokescreen" and the governor had been "unfair and unjust" to the school lobby.

Daniels belittled Lausche's charge that the $117,750,000 provided by the bill eventually would lead to new taxes.

"The same red herring has been dragged across the trial before," he shouted. "It was used by the Chamber of Commerce, one of the leading opponents to the original school foundation law, when they talked against the bill in 1935."

"It was a bogey then. It is a smokescreen now. This bill does not run until 'eventually.' It runs until May 31, 1947."

"The governor asks where this bill is leading the taxpayer," Daniels said. "It is taking them to the same destination in the same caboose, with bay windows and complete safety to the taxpayer."

The house yesterday passed the senate-approved Adams bill to create a five-member state aviation board with the authority to encourage aviation in Ohio through the construction of landing fields, schools and flying facilities.

The commission would appoint a state aviation director at a salary of $7,500 a year. The bill now needs only the governor's signature to become law.

The senate passed the house-approved Dunkle bill to set up a nine-member commission to survey Ohio's library laws and report back to the next session of the legislature with recommendations for improving the state's library facilities.

Sen. Everett E. Addison and Roscoe R. Walcutt, both Columbus Republicans, introduced a senate bill creating a nine-member commission to study possible sites for a new state fairgrounds and report back to the next legislature.

The bill would carry a $5,000 appropriation to cover the expenses of the commission.

years, they could have developed rockets that could be shot 15,000 miles—as far as from Britain to Japan.

Bromley said numerous gadgets and improvements had been made by the Germans on the V-2s to give them greater range and accuracy. He directed the assembling of 100 of the projectiles for shipment to the United States.

The rocket plant under the Kohnstein mountains was believed the world's largest underground factory. It was housed in two huge tunnels connected by a network of smaller tunnels, through which ran a 25-mile railway.

The railway was used for an assembly line capable of turning out 900 V-2s a month in addition to other V-weapons and airplane motors.

A dearth of materials, coupled with sabotage by many of the plant's 12,000 slave laborers, kept production well below capacity, however.

provision for expulsion, some minor items on trusteeships, whether the big five can veto nomination of a secretary general, plans for transitional military arrangements, and the whole problem of an interim commission to act until the new organization is formally set up.

Large sections of the charter are getting tentative approval by the conference commissions daily. The security council commission approved unanimously last night the much-disputed section on regional arrangements—the one which provides for limited exemption of such groups as the Pan-American security system.

Commission I meets today to approve the preamble, principle and purposes of the organization, and at least one commission meeting a day will be held during the rest of the week.

The issue that had bogged down several technical committees—the voting formula—was settled yesterday. After beating down an Australian test amendment to modify the Yalta formula, the full committee voted 30 to 1 (Cuba casting the lone dissent) to accept the Yalta formula as is.

Sen. Tom Connally, D., Tex., who steered the formula through the last hectic days of committee debate, hailed the action as a vote of confidence by the little nations in the sincerity and integrity of the big five—a confidence he said the big five would not betray.

The little nations said they would approve the formula if the big five would give them a chance to change the charter within a specified number of years.

The big five, however, will stand as adamantly opposed to giving up their veto over amendments as they did over changing the Yalta formula. The U. S. delegation, for example, contends that it would jeopardize senate ratification of the charter to remove the United States privilege of vetoing objectionable amendments.

President Truman said yesterday that the big three meeting would be an attempt to arrange for a peace conference. This, he added, will be a major objective of the big three meeting.

Importantly-placed officials disclosed that the agenda for the big three conference would cover at least these points pertinent to the future of the continent which has proved so fertile a birthplace for war:

Decisions on several of the 30 territorial questions which must be solved amicably to prepare Europe for peace.

Final agreement on the way Germany must pay reparations for her war of aggression.

Final decisions on the use of German labor for reconstruction work in Russia and other Nazi-victim nations.

The future of the Dardanelles, the vital water passage to the Black sea where Turkey wants sufficient guarantees of control and Russia wants assurance of an outlet to the Mediterranean.

The problem of opening up the Soviet-occupied Balkan countries to admit Allied officials and journalists and to promote governments of a more democratic nature.

The problem of Poland, depending on the results of this week's meeting of Polish political factions in Moscow.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Their story is that the underprivileged are buying and eating more. They mention negroes. Yet all the negroes I know are in the same thin soup as every other citizen, unable to get more than a spare bone for it. Their most famed food was pork chops (and I have heard new dealers in year past shed verbal tears because negroes had to eat this meat—less nutritious content than beef) but they get no pork chops now. No matter how high the new dealers may pile their statistics they cannot disprove the fact that few stores in my little town near here have had any meat, except Bologna, since last Wednesday and one store closed its butcher counters last Saturday. Talk of diets to privileged or underprivileged becomes onerous when only bologna can be obtained by anyone, and a grade greatly inferior to pre-war at that.

But to a new dealer, everything is a class problem and a social question and there is no side to anything except the one they have taken. They cannot get their minds accustomed to working with bare larders and overtaxed treasuries. There is a give away philosophy which is trying to survive a have not era.

No doubt they will start ricocheting a few shots at Mr. Truman for uttrning a worthy but impossible social purpose over to the un-social direction of the Army.

If so, they could well be invited to turn themselves strictly to a diet of their own words. Then they might have an abundance, but they would starve to death, for there are no vitamins in their verbosity—or their statistics.

daily. American dead, wounded and missing were believed to total more than 40,000.

Radio Tokyo said the Americans already had in use or under construction 10 airfields on Okinawa and adjacent Ie. Taking off from the fields, more than 50 corsairs dropped 12 tons of bombs and rockets on Japanese suicide-plane bases on Kyushu Tuesday.

Two liberators, teammates of the flying fortresses in the aerial destruction of Germany, appeared over the Tokyo-Yokohama area at 11:30 a. m. today, Tokyo said. The broadcast claimed that both were shot by anti-aircraft guns.

Another Tokyo broadcast heard in London said the first flights of flying fortresses and liberators from Europe had reached the Philippines.

Australian troops of the famed "fighting ninth" division drove into the outskirts of Brunei, capital of the Borneo sultanate of the same name, after an amphibious landing on the shores of Brunei river east of the city.

Another Australian column captured unopposed within two miles north of Brunei in an eight-mile advance along the Broekton-Brunei road. Field reports said the Japanese already had abandoned Brunei. The city probably will fall within the next 24 hours.

'FAT' LOBBYISTS MAY LOSE FIGHT

Tariff Cuts Expected To Be Approved By Senate
Despite Opposition

WASHINGTON, June 14—"Five fat lobbyists" parked outside the senate door with "their tongues hanging out" were expected to watch their fight today against new tariff cuts.

The lobbyists—"sleek" men, with "round bottoms and round heads"—are reportedly seeking to prevent the senate from giving the President 50 per cent additional tariff-cutting authority in the pending reciprocal trade agreements extension bill.

Chairman Walter F. George, D., Ga., of the senate finance committee told reporters late yesterday that the authority, stripped from the bill by a one-vote committee majority, would be reinstated when the senate votes on the issue.

He said the vote would probably come late this afternoon. He predicted proponents would pick up more Republican votes than they would lose Democratic votes.

This despite the lobbyists. They were brought into the picture during senate yesterday by indignant Sen. Charles W. Tobey, R., N. H. Tobey charged angrily that the "fat" lobbyists were calling senators out one by one and "putting the screws on" to get them to vote against the trade agreements program.

"There's some nose-counting going on here," Tobey shouted, banging on his desk. "By five fat lobbyists who are sitting out there at the senate door buttonholing senators and counting names and putting the screws on to get senators to vote against this bill."

"I say they can go straight to—you know where they can go!" Tobey told reporters in an interview immediately afterward that "a Republican leader on the floor is sitting out there with them, with a list, calling senators aside and putting on the pressure."

He refused to identify the Republican leader, although he said he "told him this to his face the other day but it didn't do any good."

The lobbyists, he said, represented interests "bitterly opposed to the trade agreements program."

"They're fat, sleek, with round bottoms and round heads," Tobey said. "Here we are working our best to use our God-given powers of thought on this issue, and this sinister influence is out there right at the door of the senate. They want to go back to the old days of the Smoot-Hawley tariff. They're sighing for it, their tongues are hanging out for it."

Tobey said the Republican party "hasn't learned much."

"We're never going to come back to power unless we stop opposing everything and sometimes support something which is for the good of all the people of the country," he said.

only in hope of helping to save something from the chaos. "I know Germany is despised by every other country in the world," he said. "There have been times when I was so ashamed to be a German that I couldn't carry on this job and face the officials I work with."

"I only hope it will be possible for the Germans to forget parties and politics and create a solid bloc of people whose sole objective will be to work hard and try to rebuild."

"Our main objective today is to be able to eat and have a roof over our heads."

FINAL TEST DUE ON SCHOOL BILL

ably will be absent Friday. Few legislators believed there was more than "an outside chance" that the veto would be sustained although Rep. Walter H. Tarr, R., Hamilton, claimed there had been a "considerable" shift of sentiment since the bill originally passed the house 105-20.

Minority Leader Robert L. Moulton, D., Crawford, who led the fight against the bill in the house, believed he had "a fighting chance" to pick up the additional 23 votes which would be needed to sustain the veto. Supporters of the bill need 82 votes.

Rep. John J. Carney, D., Cuyahoga, agreed with Majority Leader Robert R. Shaw, R., Franklin, however, that the bill would be repassed overwhelmingly. He predicted that 50 per cent of the house Democrats would vote to override their governor's veto.

Twenty-six Democrats joined the Republican majority in voting for the bill originally.

Sen. Albert A. Daniels, R., of Greenfield, co-author of the bill, spearheaded the fight to override the governor's veto. He said the four reasons given by Lausche for his veto were a "smokescreen" and the governor had been "unfair and unjust" to the school lobby.

Daniels belittled Lausche's charge that the $117,750,000 provided by the bill eventually would lead to new taxes.

"The same red herring has been dragged across the trial before," he shouted. "It was used by the Chamber of Commerce, one of the leading opponents to the original school foundation law, when they talked against the bill in 1935."

"It was a bogey then. It is a smokescreen now. This bill does not run until 'eventually.' It runs until May 31, 1947."

"The governor asks where this bill is leading the taxpayer," Daniels said. "It is taking them to the same destination in the same caboose, with bay windows and complete safety to the taxpayer."

The house yesterday passed the senate-approved Adams bill to create a five-member state aviation board with the authority to encourage aviation in Ohio through the construction of landing fields, schools and flying facilities.

The commission would appoint a state aviation director at a salary of $7,500 a year. The bill now needs only the governor's signature to become law.

The senate passed the house-approved Dunkle bill to set up a nine-member commission to survey Ohio's library laws and report back to the next session of the legislature with recommendations for improving the state's library facilities.

Sens. Everett E. Addison and Roscoe R. Walcutt, both Columbus Republicans, introduced a senate bill creating a nine-member commission to study possible sites for a new state fairgrounds and report back to the next legislature. The bill would carry a $5,000 appropriation to cover the expenses of the commission.

years, they could have developed rockets that could be shot 15,000 miles—as far as from Britain to Japan. Bromley said numerous gadgets and improvements had been made by the Germans on the V-2s to give them greater range and accuracy. He directed the assembling of 100 of the projectiles for shipment to the United States.

The rocket plant under the Kohnstein mountains was believed the world's largest underground factory. It was housed in two huge tunnels connected by a network of smaller tunnels, through which ran a 25-mile railway.

The railway was used for an assembly line capable of turning out 900 V-2s a month in addition to other V-weapons and airplane motors.

A dearth of materials, coupled with sabotage by many of the plant's 12,000 slave laborers, kept production well below capacity, however.

Police recovered the stolen grocery delivery car of E. W. Weller Thursday morning.

The car, a 1930 Ford tudor which had been converted into a modified truck, was stolen from the vicinity of Watt and Pickaway streets late Wednesday evening.

It had been abandoned in the alley east of the Circleville fire department building. Police suspected that the thieves had been unable to restart it after it had stalled in the alley.

the orchids. They were Frances' first. There was a note in the corsage. It said: "If orchids could speak, Frances, they would say we will be honored to have you wear us."

"The commanding general, officers and men of the Fourth Marine division wish you many happy returns on your 18th birthday. And we wish you all the joy and happiness in the world in the years to come."

"Yes, you are a brave girl. . . . The Marines sought a proxy for the dead brother to take Frances to the dance."

Last night 8/Sgt. William P. Angeles, Jr., Denver, Colo., of the Second Marine division, knocked at her door. He had just returned to this country after 33 months in the Pacific—at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese first struck, at Guadalcanal and Saipan. He was chosen as the proxy by the Atlanta Marine corps office. He was wearing his best dress "blues" and campaign ribbons.

"I have come to take you to the dance," he told Frances.

She was wearing the white chiffon evening dress. The sash was green velvet. In her hand she carried a small bag covered with emerald green sequins—also a gift from the Marines.

"My favorite color," she said.

Her dark, page-boy bob was caught up with a matching green ribbon.

Her fellow workers were there when the couple entered the enlisted men's service club at Warner Robins field. It was lighted by candles.

"Happy birthday," they said. Mayor Charles E. Bowden handed her the general's orchids.

The orchestra played "Candy," "Stardust," then "Sentimental Journey."

"It's like a dream," Frances told Sgt. Angeles.

After the huge birthday cake was cut, after congratulations and dancing and singing, Frances went to her mother, Mrs. G. E. Newman, who was watching quietly from a darkened corner. Mother and daughter talked in low tones. They cried a little.

"I wish Brother could see me," Frances said. "Mama, I think it's beautiful."

Then Frances, just as General Cates had ordered, stuck out her chin and went back to the center of the party. There were tears in her eyes, but she was smiling.

"General Cates was right," Mrs. Newman said. "My daughter is a very brave girl."

POLICE RECOVER PART OF LOOT FROM STATION

Circleville police found part of the loot of the Crites North Court street filling station burglary on Route 23 Wednesday. The police reported that they had recovered the cash register and desk drawer and peanut machine near Bunker Hill.

The peanut machine had not been opened and the money was still in it. The cancelled gasoline ration stamps were missing from the desk drawer but the books, containing the charge account records, were recovered.

The filling station was entered by the burglars Tuesday night. They smashed the glass out of the front door and removed the recovered articles. Police report that the only things still missing are the $10 in pennies and the gasoline stamps.

There were three boys who had been in the barn Tuesday but one of them had detached himself from the other two. The two boys who were captured refused to reveal the whereabouts of the other fugitive.

RUMORS PERSIST BERLIN WILL BE SESSION SITE

some modifications, the decisions blueprinted at the Truman-Churchill-Stalin parley.

President Truman said yesterday that the big three meeting would be an attempt to arrange for a peace conference. This, he added, will be a major objective of the big three meeting.

Importantly-placed officials disclosed that the agenda for the big three conference would cover at least three points pertinent to the future of the continent which has proved so fertile a birthplace for war:

Decisions on several of the 30 territorial questions which must be solved amicably to prepare Europe for peace.

Final agreement on the way Germany must pay reparations for her war of aggression.

Final decisions on the use of German labor for reconstruction work in Russia and other Nazi-victim nations.

BURGLARS FACE TOUGH GOING AFTER WAR ENDS

SEATTLE, June 14—Burglars will have to find new occupations after the war if they want to stay healthy, Police Chief Herbert D. Kimsey warned today.

He said he had millions of reasons for his statement each one of them a serviceman who has become skilled in tangling successfully with people who don't mind their own business.

"Burglars will encounter millions of battle-hardened, light-sleeping veterans fully prepared to defend their homes with all the highly-trained violence they employed on the battlefield," Kimsey said.

"They would be lucky to get out of houses like that alive. The veteran policeman said his opinion wasn't based on hearsay. He has discussed the future of the breaking and entering profession with some of Seattle's most proficient thieves. They frankly admitted they were scared stiff at the prospect of encountering fearless judo experts.

"There was a considerable increase in burglaries for a year after the last war ended," Kimsey recalled. "But that was because the jobs were scarce. Second-story men, the old-timers, think things are going to be different this time."

Several of them already have decided to retire from their profession for good because of mounting risks, he said.

"Most servicemen sleep like cats, and when they wake up, even if they haven't got bazookas parked by their beds, they have unarmed night fighting down to a science.

"We have a couple of would-be burglars in our custody now who have been worked over by veterans. They are in a rather tattered condition."

RICKEY BACKS PEPPERY PILOT AS BUMS WIN

Reds Snap Losing Streak With 2-1 Victory; Indians Beaten

NEW YORK, June 14—Dodger President Branch Rickey's statement supporting his peppery pilot, Leo Durocher, indicated today that he either has had a change of sentiment or that the definitely doesn't want to break up a winning combination.

Maybe the fact that the Dodgers are riding a winning wave and that they are just half a game out of first place has something to do with Rickey's confidence in Durocher at a time when he is involved in court action for allegedly slugging and breaking the jaw of a critical fan.

At any rate the Dodgers are hustling as they haven't since they beat the Cardinals out of the pennant in 1941 and Rickey's statement that "when our men are in trouble, we will stand by them" is the staunchest backing he has given Durocher since taking over operation of the club shortly before the 1943 season. Maybe it isn't coincidence either.

From the start of his regime Rickey indicated he wasn't too keen on the boisterous Durocher and it was significant he never gave him more than a one-year contract as manager. Often he was openly critical of Durocher's actions both on and off the field, censuring him for permitting high-stake card playing among the players, questioning his tactics after a club-house rebellion in 1943 and telling him flatly this Spring that his job as manager came first and if other activities interfered he would have to give it up.

But Rickey, a shrewd business man, likes a winner and the miracle of the current motley crew being barely behind the leading Giants may have convinced him that Durocher is an outstanding manager.

The Dodgers, almost unanimously picked for a lower second division finish, were at the peak of their current winning wave of five straight and six wins in the last seven games, when downing the Giants, 3 to 2, last night. Hal Gregg, pitching a five-hitter, won his eighth game. The Giants, dropping their second straight to the Dodgers have lost five in a row and nine of the last 10. The usually weak-hitting Eddie Basinski, who drove in two runs with a single and double, paced the attack against Harry Feldman.

It took the Phillies 15-innings in the second game of a doubleheader at Boston to end their 16-game losing streak, winning 5 to 4 after the Braves had won their ninth straight with an 8 to 3 victory in the opener. Mort Cooper pitched his second victory in four days in the opener for his sixth of the season without a loss. Tommy Holmes got a Boston homer and Walter Flager hit one for the Phils. Rene Monteagudo scored two runs on a single for the Phils in the 15th and the Braves added one in their half which wasn't enough. Dick Barrett came back to win the second game after losing the first, relieving both times.

The Cards raised their world championship flag at St. Louis before Commissioner Albert (Happy) Chandler, then dropped their game to the Reds, 2 to 1. Castoff oje Bowman won his third straight since being waived out of the American league by the Red Sox. He had a seven-hit shutout until an error in the ninth gave the Cards their only run. The victory ended a five-game Red losing streak.

Rudy York came out of a prolonged slump with three hits, including a homer, to lead the Tigers to a 6 to 4 victory over the Browns at Detroit. The victory increased their league lead over the Yankees to a game. Even more cheering than York's power display was the news that Capt. Hank Greenberg, prem ier Tiger slugger, soon may be discharged from the Army. Forrest Orrel, with relief help, was the winner and Nelson Potter the loser. Joe Hoover of Detroit and George McQuinn of the Browns also hit homers.

The White Sox made some timely hits off Cleveland ace, Steve Gromek, to beat him, 5 to 3, at Chicago as Joe Haynes scattered 14 hits. Case Michaels, with a long fly and his first big league homer, drove in two Chicago runs.

Boston at Philadelphia in the American was postponed and the other teams were not scheduled.

Yesterday's Star—Rudy York, Tiger slugger, who came out of a slump, hitting a homer and two singles to bat in four runs in a 6 to 4 win over the Browns.

The Apple Blossom was chosen by resolution of the Legislature of 1901 as the official flower of Arkansas. It was chosen because of natural beauty of the flower of the apple, and for the added reason that the fruit of the bloom is esteemed both for its excellence and abundance.

Meanwhile "Bo" Wellington was giving Circle City five hits.

MAX SCHMELING CHALLENGER CAN FIGHT NO MORE

BREMEN, June 14—Gustav Thromier, once the number one challenger for Max Schmeling's German heavyweight championship, is through with his boxing career because he was anti-Nazi.

Thromier, who should be a 190-pounder at the peak of his career, now weighs a mere 140, while Schmeling, the Nazi, is sleek and healthy in Hamburg.

Thromier, who says he still can throw a pretty good punch, never will enter a ring again. SS men in a concentration camp cut through his stomach muscles—three broad gashes.

"They knew I was a fighter and this ruins my chance forever," he said.

The boxer was arrested when he described Adolf Hitler's dreams of world conquest as ridiculous when confiding to a supposed friend. He now is working as a masseur in the army baths.

Thromier's boxing record shows 48 victories, three draws and three defeats. All of his losses were in close bouts.

HOOP JR. ODDS DROP WITH NEW JOCKEY SIGNED

BALTIMORE Md., June 14—Assignment of a new jockey who never had ridden Hoop, Jr., was expected today to knock down the 7 to 5 odds by which the Kentucky Derby winner was favored to win the 55th running of the Preakness stakes at Pimlico Saturday.

Fred Hooper, the Alabama contractor who owns the fleet bay son of Sir Gallahad III, announced last night in a telephone conversation from his Montgomery home that Alfred Snider would be up on Hoop Jr. when the expected field of nine trots to the post at Old Hilltop.

Hooper and his trainer, Ivan Parke, had attempted for several days to again obtain the services of Eddie Arcaro, who drove little Hoop to a six length victory in the mud at Churchill Downs. But Arcaro is a Greentree Stable contract rider and that barn ordered him to stay home this weekend and ride its Devil Diver in the Suburban handicap at New York's Belmont park the same afternoon the run the Preakness here.

Selection of a rider who never had handled Hoop Jr., definitely brightened the chances of Pavot, the second choice at 7 to 2.

Rainbow, a town in Texas, got its name when the sun came out during a rainstorm while a group of citizens was meeting to pick a suitable name for their new city.

Probable starters expected to complete the field were Charles S. Howard's Sea Swallow, a son of his famed Seabiscuit; Col. E. R. Bradley's frustrated Burning Dream and Bail Bond; Mrs. W. G. Lewis' Diary Dieppe; Christiana stable's Alexis; Pentagon stable's The Doge and Mrs. P. A. B. Wide-ner's Polynesian.

RICKEY BACKS PEPPERY PILOT AS BUMS WIN

Reds Snap Losing Streak With 2-1 Victory; Indians Beaten

NEW YORK, June 14—Dodger President Branch Rickey's statement supporting his peppery pilot, Leo Durocher, indicated today that he either has had a change of sentiment or that the definitely doesn't want to break up a winning combination.

Maybe the fact that the Dodgers are riding a winning wave and that they are just half a game out of first place had something to do with Rickey's confidence in Durocher at a time when he is involved in court action for allegedly slugging and breaking the jaw of a critical fan.

At any rate the Dodgers are hustling as they haven't since they beat the Cardinals out of the pennant in 1941 and Rickey's statement that "when our men are in trouble, we will stand by them" is the staunchest backing he has given Durocher since taking over operation of the club shortly before the 1943 season. Maybe it isn't coincidence either.

From the start of his regime Rickey indicated he wasn't too keen on the boisterous Durocher and it was significant he never gave him more than a one-year contract as manager. Often he was openly critical of Durocher's actions both on and off the field, censuring him for permitting high-stake card playing among the players, questioning his tactics after a club-house rebellion in 1943 and telling him flatly this Spring that his job as manager came first and that if other activities interfered he would have to give it up.

The Dodgers, almost unanimously picked for a lower second division finish, were at the peak of their current winning wave of five straight and six wins in the last seven games, when downing the Giants, 3 to 2, last night. Hal Gregg, pitching a five-hitter, won his eighth game. The Giants, dropping their second straight to the Dodgers have lost five in a row and nine of the last 10. The usually weak-hitting Eddie Basinski, who drove in two runs with a single and double, paced the attack against Harry Feldman.

It took the Phillies 15-innings in the second game of a doubleheader at Boston to end their 16-game losing streak, winning 5 to 4 after the Braves had won their ninth straight with an 8 to 3 victory in the opener. Mort Cooper pitched his second victory in four days in the opener for his sixth of the season without a loss. Tommy Holmes got a Boston homer and Walter Flager hit one for the Phils. Rene Montague scored two runs on a single for the Phils in the 15th and the Braves added one in their half which wasn't enough. Dick Barrett came back to win the second game after losing the first, relieving both times.

The Cards raised their world championship flag at St. Louis before Commissioner Albert (Happy) Chandler, then dropped their game to the Reds, 2 to 1. Castoff Ole Bowman won his third straight since being waived out of the American league by the Red Sox. He had a seven-hit shutout until an error in the ninth gave the Cards their only run. The victory ended a five-game Red losing streak.

COLONELS HOLD AA LEAD; BIRDS WIN AND LOSE

By United Press
The Louisville Colonels still were leading in the American Association standings today after ringing up a 6-3 victory over Milwaukee.

The Colonels' victory at Milwaukee pushed the Brewers down to third position, while Indianapolis returned to the second spot by defeating the Blues, 5 to 3, at Kansas City.

Kansas City, with only 17 games won and 31 lost stayed in the cellar. The Minneapolis nine, which has been giving the Blues close competition for last place, split a doubleheader with the Red Birds at Columbus, 6 to 3, and 2 to 12.

St. Paul and Toledo also split a doubleheader. St. Paul took the first game, at Toledo 7 to 4, but the Mud Hens came back to smother the Saints, 6 to 1.

Today's games: St. Paul at Toledo (night); Minneapolis at Columbus (night); Kansas City at Indianapolis (night); Milwaukee at Louisville (night).

HOOP JR. ODDS DROP WITH NEW JOCKEY SIGNED

BALTIMORE Md., June 14—Assignment of a new jockey who never had ridden Hoop, Jr., was expected today to knock down the 7 to 5 odds by which the Kentucky Derby winner was favored to win the 55th running of the Preakness stakes at Pimlico Saturday.

Fred Hooper, the Alabama contractor who owns the fleet bay son of Sir Gallahad III, announced last night in a telephone conversation from his Montgomery home that Alfred Snider would be up on Hoop Jr. when the expected field of nine trots to the post at Old Hilltop.

Hooper and his trainer, Ivan Parke, had attempted for several days to again obtain the services of Eddie Arcaro, who drove little Hoop to a six length victory in the mud at Churchill Downs, but Arcaro is a Greentree Stable contractor and that barn ordered him to stay home this weekend and ride its Devil Diver in the Suburban handicap at New York's Belmont park the same afternoon the run the Preakness here.

Selection of a rider who never had handled Hoop Jr., definitely brightened the chances of Pavot, the second choice at 7 to 2.

Rainbow, a town in Texas, got its name when the sun came out during a rainstorm while a group of citizens was meeting to pick a suitable name for their new city.

Probable starters expected to complete the field were Charles S. Lewis' Diary Dieppe; Christiana stable's Alexis; Pentagon stable's The Doge and Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polynesian.

Surplus Board Says Consumer Goods Sell First; Vets To Be Aided

WASHINGTON, June 14—The surplus property board disclosed today that food, consumer goods and small vessels were the fastest moving things it had to sell.

At the same time the Smaller War Plants Corp. announced a plan to grant veterans going into business a top priority to buy up to $2,500 worth of surplus property.

In its second quarterly report to congress the board said it sold $265,000,000 worth of available surpluses in the 10-month period from June, 1944, to March, 1945. This figure represented about 16 per cent of outstanding surplus, it said.

Four-fifths of the sales as a general rule were made to non-government buyers, the board revealed, about 12 per cent to federal agencies and only 2 per cent to state and local governments.

Surplus property in the hands of owning and disposal agencies amounts to approximately $1,250,000,000. About $1,000,000,000 is surplus aircraft and related equipment. Total government ownership of plants and facilities comes to $16,000,000,000, or about one-fifth of the nation's industrial plant.

Transfers of surplus within the War and Navy departments and between the two departments has amounted to $212,000,000, the board said.

It reported that disposal of real estate has not been a major problem because only 189,000 acres out of a total of 9,000,000 acres and 26,000 parcels have been declared surplus.

The SWPC's plan will go into effect July 1. It is intended to speed up the transfer of surpluses from government stock piles to sites where veterans' businesses will be located, and keep unscrupulous buyers from getting their hands on material which SWPC is earmarking for veterans.

Under the plan a veteran may apply for $2,500 worth of surplus property for his business and at the same time apply for a loan to buy the surplus.

After an application is approved SWPC asks disposal agencies if they have the material requested. As soon as it is declared surplus SWPC purchases the material for the veteran on an A-1 government priority.

Sales are based on OPA prices less depreciation. SWPC officials estimate that the whole process, from the time the veteran first applies for the surplus until SWPC actually has it shipped to him, will not require over five weeks.

The program is limited to a veteran's business with an invested capital not exceeding $50,000. Of this amount at least one-half must be loaned to a veteran. If a non-veteran is associated with a veteran in the business the non-veteran cannot own more than one-half interest.

Rep. Gordon L. McDonough, R., Calif., has introduced two bills which would waive payment on the first $1,000 worth of surplus property the veteran obtained. This bonus-in-kind would undoubtedly increase the popularity of the SWPC program for veterans.

Meanwhile the War and Navy departments announced the arrival in London of James S. Knowlson, central field commissioner for the European theatre, who will lay the groundwork for disposal of Army-Navy surplus in Europe.

His trip was described as largely exploratory. He was accompanied by 20 key staff members, part of whom will remain in London with another group proceeding to Paris.

NEW CHEMICAL REPLACES PRE-WAR INSECT KILLERS

Black bean aphids preying on this nasturtium stem are closely akin to the plant lice which attack all vegetable crops, sucking the juices of the plants and destroying their vitality.

A powerful synthetic insect-killer promises this season to meet vegetable growers' urgent need for an insecticide to replace the war-scarce rotenone, pyrethrum, and nicotine sulphate used to control aphids, leafhoppers and other pests. Known as Lethane B-71, this new synthetic was developed before Pearl Harbor and has undergone four years of extensive field testing on tomato, pea, bean, spinach and cabbage crops by large growers and State Experiment Stations. In the control of sucking insects, the chemical has demonstrated a killing power equal to nicotine, rotenone and pyrethrum.

With critical food shortages threatening this season, the vegetable grower is welcoming this new synthetic toxicant as a timely development. The entire output of pyrethrum is going to the Armed Forces, supplies of rotenone will total less than half the season's requirements, and there is every indication that nicotine sulphate will be equally hard to get.

In extensive field experiments conducted in such important truck crop areas as Long Island, Maine, New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania, Florida, Texas and California, this synthetic developed by the Rohm & Haas Company of Philadelphia has demonstrated a high kill on such sucking insects as leafhoppers, aphids and onion thrips and has proved harmless to vegetable crops and foliage. For these sucking insects, a finished insecticide based on this thiocyanate is a complete replacement for dusts containing rotenone, pyrethrum or nicotine sulphate. For crops which are attacked by both sucking and chewing insects the chemical can be combined with a stomach poison. It is available from agricultural supply dealers as a dry concentrate or as a liquid, which requires simple extension with proper carriers to manufacture the finished dust or spray.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SEA LOSSES

MEN who "go down to the sea in ships" have had tragic luck lately in many places. The loss of destroyers and other vessels at Okinawa strikes home to every American heart, and gives new evidence of the sacrifices our seamen are making to insure our safety here at home. We can spare the ships far better than the men.

It would not be so bad if the enemy were civilized enough to fight according to the rules of warfare, as laid down in our international agreements to which the Japanese themselves have subscribed. But we have learned to our great regret that there is no chivalry among the Japs, whether by land or sea. In addition to our maritime losses we lose the sense of "clean fighting" to which the American tradition has always adhered, from John Paul Jones down to the present war.

As for the material losses at sea, we can readily replace them, for we have the greatest navy ever built and by far the greatest power of production. We can replace the men, too—numerically—but not in our hearts.

DING HOW!

A new expression may be coming into favor one of these days. It is "ding how," a Chinese term meaning "very good." Col. Robert F. Seedlock, American commander of the famous engineers who built the Burma Road, had reason to make liberal use of it in praise of his coolies when he was on that job.

"Some of those Chinese walked three weeks to reach the job," he says. "We had boys eight years old and men who looked to be 80. They dug the road out with farm hoes and carried the dirt off in baskets woven of reeds on the spot. It is the only military road in the world built with hand labor supplemented by modern machinery." (Without detracting from Col. Seedlock's praise of his workers, let it be added that parts of the Pan-American Highway were built thus also.) The Burma Road runs from India to China over the big Himalayan foothills, with a 9,000-foot hump, through jungles, across rivers, along sheer cliffs, and is probably the toughest road job anyone ever tackled.

One of these times the Chinese may be building such roads again for themselves, as they started doing in the days of Genghis Khan.

The delayed spring in many parts of the country may be due to some one else having a priority on warm weather. Or maybe Hitler and his Nazis are getting all the heat.

Up-to-date zoo directors ought to put chickens on display so that people will know what they look like.

One of the most welcome forerunners of peace is the proposed reduction in the price of woolen clothing.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 14—Without a fanfare or even an audible mute note of the bugles, Mr. Truman has eased the handling of European food over to the Army, as much as possible.

The rumbling congressional distrust of united nations relief and rehabilitation administration and all the other government bureaus directly or remotely connected with a planned ideological distribution of foodstuffs aboard is unquestionably what inspired the easing process. The sidling away from them may be gradual and limited.

UNRRA has $450,000,000 and has a few men in some Balkan nations like Yugoslavia, beyond the reach of our Army. But our skilled Army supply men are in France, Belgium, Holland, Italy and our part of Germany. They knew enough about their business to supply a victory.

Therefore it is quite natural and logical for this government to utilize their distribution facilities, rather than to prod into action the half-dormant UNRRA, with its notions of handling food in a political way, gaining lip-prestige for America from doughnuts. The change no doubt will be popular even among the hungry in Europe, as UNRRA has not been able to reach many with much (note Italy for a prime example.)

Remember Mr. Hoover's visit to Mr. Truman a few weeks back? The meeting was sealed airtight against publicity or speculation in public, and no mention of it has been made since the former European food administrator walked out and told news-men that, in view of his own presidential experience in the White House with talking callers, they could never get anything about this conference from him.

Stories were published that Mr. Truman might have offered Mr. Hoover the European feeding job. This is extremely unlikely. Mr. Hoover's age (70) would exclude him from considering or accepting such a vigorous task. My information is that this subject never came up.

The real purpose of the meeting was to discuss who could handle this botched European food job best. Singularly, both the Republican ex-president who did it so successfully last time he won international fame that eventually put him in the White House, and the new Democratic president agreed this time the only agency fitted to undertake it was the Army. It has the shipping facilities, the know-how, and, incidentally, most of the available food for the purpose.

The political phase may not have been discussed between the two. Yet it seemed to me the fairest and cleanest job which could be done along this line in Europe will be the most popular, will gain us the most permanent friendliness, and in this connection, also the Army qualifies best.

The shortage of all foodstuffs in this country today also precludes any reasonable possibility of going through with the new dealers' program of improving the diet of everyone everywhere. Indeed, the improvement of our diet at home has been turned by events into a primary administration responsibility.

Yet I hear new dealers here maintaining that this nation is eating better today than ever in its history—and they can contrive figures to shed a truthful light on this impossibility.

"Before I present my semi-annual report, I'd like to say a few words in my behalf—"

DIET AND HEALTH

Malnutrition, Delinquency

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THERE has been a great deal of discussion recently concerning juvenile delinquency, which in plain language means bad behavior in children. It is well recognized that certain physical disorders may be contributing causes for such bad behavior.

One of the physical disorders, which seems to be especially important, according to Doctor Aloysius S. Church of New York, is malnutrition. For example, it is known that a child who does not get enough vitamin B-complex may be irritable, moody and "mean." With more severe vitamin B deficiency, depression and emotional upsets are frequently noted. Of more than 700 children ranging in age from 11 to 17 years in a home for delinquent boys, four-fifths showed evidences of poor nutrition in various degrees.

Craving for Food

A large number of delinquent children crave food, may steal money in order to buy food, and when they do get it, they eat it rapidly. In institutions, delinquent children often hide food to be eaten later, even when they are assured of three good meals a day. Children talk about food as much as, if not more than, they do about any other subject.

In a study of a number of boys admitted to an institution for delinquent children, it was found that many had meals at home only rarely. Many had meals at hamburger stands and drug stores. Half of the children were underweight and four-fifths had pale, thin, poor muscles and signs of deficiency of vitamins A, B and C.

Behavior Suffers

Any person's conduct will depend, at least in part, upon his physical condition, on how he feels. If children are permitted to be undernourished and underfed it is easily understandable that their behavior is likely to suffer. Of course, the maintenance of good nutrition depends on seeing to it that children get three well-balanced meals a day, that they have plenty of rest and sleep, adequate exercise, and are not subject to nervous or mental excitement which will interfere with digestion. Any physical defects present which may interfere with the absorption and use of food by the body must be corrected.

The activities of the mind cannot be separated from those of the rest of the body. If a child is to be a well-rounded personality he must be kept in good physical condition as well as given adequate mental training.

DUSK COMES softly to Buenos Aires. Although it was only 6 o'clock when the Kimberly party arrived at the airport, already clusters of parkway lights were blooming along the wide drive that led from the highway into the white, modern depot. Ten minutes in the air and the sea of lights below unraveled into stray ends as they passed over an occasional village. Then there was only darkness and the endless pampas stretching westward.

Everyone seemed too exhausted for conversation. Jim and the baroness had taken seats at the rear of the cabin. Raff and Terry sat directly behind them.

In that moment of silence, with only the dull drone of the engine and the wind blending their voices together, Terry's mind was filled with tumbling thoughts. During the busy days she moved about her new orbit, taking events for granted. But at times like this, when full realization dawned, the fabulousness of the past few weeks came to envelope her.

The whole business had the filmy unreality of a dream. She, Terry Arnold, a struggling writer, a nobody, really being catapulted overnight from heartbreak, loneliness and bitter failure into the very bosom of one of the most revered families in the Argentine! She had the constant feeling of apprehension. That she might suddenly awaken and find herself back in her little hotel room at the San Juan. She could feel the closeness of Raff beside her, see his dim outline from a threat of light that came from the instrument panel. His sudden voice shook her from her dreams.

"Senior Mercado, the contractor, thinks we can get started with the building in two weeks."

"That's wonderful!" Terry said.

quietly. "What did he think of the project?"

"I never saw anyone more enthusiastic. Of course, he would be getting a contract to build 50 houses, all in one afternoon. But there was more than that. I mean, it wasn't just what he was going to make out of the job, it was the whole idea that seemed to strike him."

"You mean like the magazine editor said—that this might start a wave of such building?" Terry asked.

"That's it. The old thrill of pioneering. Of being the first in a new movement that might be a lot bigger than any of us realize."

"I have a feeling it will be."

Raff dropped his voice, as if his words were for Terry, and Terry alone.

"Don't tell anyone this," Raff said. "Not yet, anyway. But Mercado wants me to join his firm after the buildings are finished."

Terry again caught the new note of pride in his words. Raff, she thought, old, carefree Raff, is certainly changing. A few weeks ago he wouldn't have taken a job on a silver platter. Now he was proud to tell her that he was actually in demand. Terry felt Raff's hand close lightly over hers.

"I'm terribly proud of you," Terry said.

"You mean you don't like playboys?"

"Liking and respect are synonymous," Terry said. "And it's pretty hard to respect anyone who doesn't have a definite purpose."

"You're sure a lot different than I thought you were at first," Raff said thoughtfully.

"Meaning what?"

"Oh, I don't know—I guess I thought you were like most girls from North America."

Terry laughed lightly.

"Filthy rich, indolent and pleasure-seeking?"

"I guess you can blame it on our American movies," Raff said. "You know to most Argentines every one from North America is worth at least a cool million."

"I've heard that," Terry said. "Of course it's ridiculous."

Raff seemed suddenly to realize he was bordering on dangerous territory.

"To go back to Mercado. He thought my sketches were splendid. His idea is this—he has part of a floor in his building that is at present unused. He suggested that he have his own architectural department and let me be the head of it. I would have several young architects under me doing the detail work. It really sounds to me like a wonderful opening!"

"It's made to order!" Terry said.

"You should have seen her a few hours ago," she said. "She was quite the life of the party."

Brooks' dark, handsome face lighted. "Oh, one of those things," he said. "Those daigueros will be the death of her yet."

He glanced at his watch. "It's ten minutes to eight. I'd better be leaving. Did Manuelo wait?"

"Yes," Jim said. "I told him I thought you'd want him to run you down to the station."

Raff hit Brooks a friendly tap on the back.

"I suppose the speech's all finished and polished?"

"Know it by heart," Brooks laughed.

He turned to Terry, who stood next to his mother. "I can't believe you did anything today," he said. "You look as fresh as a flower."

"For an Argentinean your Irish blarney is perfect," Terry said, flushing.

Everyone shook hands with Brooks, wished him well on his campaign tour. Jim lingered a moment at the door as her tail son bent to kiss her, and then the door closed and the sound of the car faded into the night.

Long after Terry was snuggled in her bed Brooks' words kept ringing over and over again in her mind. "You look as fresh as a flower." Beautiful words, really. She felt the color in her cheeks and the mad racing of her heart. How silly, she thought. He's nothing more than a friend to me. He belongs to Corinne—and always will! Finally she dropped off to sleep.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T AID THE ENEMY
NO GREATER indictment can be voted against the bidding of many top-class players than to say they are "new suit crazy." On many an occasion, you see one of them, when partner of a major suit bidder, answer with another suit instead of showing a fit if they hold four cards of it. The hands on which they do this are those which are "just too strong for a mere single raise and not quite strong enough for a double raise which commits the side to a game." So they try to show their precise strength by first bidding another suit and then later showing the fit. And in so doing they help the enemy.

That bidding was done at several tables of a duplicate with a lot of masters in the field, and in every case it scared West away from what would otherwise be his natural lead of a diamond. A spade was the lead instead, usually the A, though it made no difference whether the A or the 3.

The winning bidding was by the pairs where it was a mere 1-Heart, 3-Hearts, 4-Hearts. West after that led his diamond 5 in every case, enabling South to discard two of dummy's spades on the suit before you could say "Jack Robinson." Most of those declarers made their contracts plus one extra trick.

But that simple bidding was not fancy enough for some of those who pride themselves on showing exact strength of their hand. They thought a single raise was too weak, and a double jump too strong. The bid of a new suit was just right, they thought, on the first round. See what happened to them.

The spade A, spade J, spade K and—a very good defensive play—spade 8 lead caught West with the heart 8, which he used to force the dummy's 10. That made it impossible to catch East's heart Q-8-6, one of which was destined to win the setting trick.

Where North was willing to underbid a little with 2-Hearts on his first turn, or overbid a little with 3-Hearts, the game was assured by keeping the defense in the dark.

Russia Making Plans To Expand Her Fleet

New Agriculture Boss To Shake Up Department

Special to Central Press

● WASHINGTON—Best advices in diplomatic and naval circles indicate that Russia is planning to expand her sea power vastly as soon as she recuperates from her tremendous losses in the German war.

If there is anything tangible left of the German fleet, Russia is expected to demand a large share. Moscow knows that the Soviet Union, like the sprawling empire of the czars before it, is lamentably weak on the high seas.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill revealed recently that Great Britain handed over five of the old American destroyers to Russia, along with other vessels, including an old battleship, shortly after the fall of Italy. And the United States gave the Soviet the cruiser Milwaukee.

This was done because parts of the Italian navy, which Russia demanded in the dark days of the war, were unsuited to deep sea duty.

Now demands already are arising in Parliament that Moscow be asked to return to Britain the ships she received—on the basis that they no longer are useful in the war.

Because of her naval ambitions, some authorities think she would like to engage in the Pacific war against Japan. She could study the American and British navies, acquire the know-how, and generally trim her sails for whatever the future may hold.

● LOOK FOR A SHAKEUP in the Department of Agriculture when Rep. Clinton Anderson becomes the new secretary.

Anderson has done a bang-up job as chairman of the House food committee and, as a man with ideas, he has the backing of President Truman to put them into effect.

He has told newsmen privately that his door will be open at all times for questioners and that he plans to make his department one of the most active agencies in the government.

Anderson will have a much larger job to do than his predecessor, Claude R. Wickard, who has been nominated for rural electrification administrator.

Under the new set-up, Anderson will have both the Department of Agriculture and the War Food Administration.

This agency division had split Wickard's authority and focused most attention on Marvin Jones, WFA administrator. Wickard was out in the cold, and in his press relations, he became less and less accessible.

Anderson, however, plans to change all this. It would be no surprise to see him forge to the top in the handling of the nation's critical food problem, complicated by the huge demands being made for supplies for Europe and the world.

SEA LOSSES

MEN who "go down to the sea in ships" have had tragic luck lately in many places. The loss of destroyers and other vessels at Okinawa strikes home to every American heart, and gives new evidence of the sacrifices our seamen are making to insure our safety here at home. We can spare the ships far better than the men.

It would not be so bad if the enemy were civilized enough to fight according to the rules of warfare, as laid down in our international agreements to which the Japanese themselves have subscribed. But we have learned to our great regret that there is no chivalry among the Japs, whether by land or sea. In addition to our maritime losses we lose the sense of "clean fighting" to which the American tradition has always adhered, from John Paul Jones down to the present war.

As for the material losses at sea, we can readily replace them, for we have the greatest navy ever built and by far the greatest power of production. We can replace the men, too—numerically—but not in our hearts.

DING HOW!

A new expression may be coming into favor one of these days. It is "ding how," a Chinese term meaning "very good." Col. Robert F. Seedlock, American commander of the famous engineers who built the Burma Road, had reason to make liberal use of it in praise of his coolies when he was on that job.

"Some of those Chinese walked three weeks to reach the job," he says. "We had boys eight years old and men who looked to be 80. They dug the road out with farm hoes and carried the dirt off in baskets woven of reeds on the spot. It is the only military road in the world built with hand labor supplemented by modern machinery." (Without detracting from Col. Seedlock's praise of his workers, let it be added that parts of the Pan-American Highway were built thus also.) The Burma Road runs from India to China over the big Himalayan foothills, with a 9,000-foot hump, through jungles, across rivers, along sheer cliffs, and is probably the toughest road job anyone ever tackled.

One of these times the Chinese may be building such roads again for themselves, as they started doing in the days of Genghis Khan.

The delayed spring in many parts of the country may be due to some one else having a priority on warm weather. Or maybe Hitler and his Nazis are getting all the heat.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 14—Without a fanfare or even an audible mute note of the bugles, Mr. Truman has eased the handling of European food over to the Army, as much as possible.

The rumbling congressional distrust of united nations relief and rehabilitation administration and all the other government bureaus directly or remotely connected with a planned ideological distribution of foodstuffs aboard is unquestionably what inspired the easing process. The sidling away from them may be gradual and limited.

UNRRA has $450,000,000 and has a few men in some Balkan nations like Yugoslavia, beyond the reach of our Army. But our skilled Army supply men are in France, Belgium, Holland, Italy and our part of Germany. They knew enough about their business to supply a victory.

Therefore it is quite natural and logical for this government to utilize their distribution facilities, rather than to prod into action the half-dormant UNRRA, with its notions of handling food in a political way, gaining lip-prestige for America from doughnuts. The change no doubt will be popular even among the hungry in Europe, as UNRRA has not been able to reach many with much (note Italy for a prime example.)

Remember Mr. Hoover's visit to Mr. Truman a few weeks back? The meeting was sealed airtight against publicity or speculation in public, and no mention of it has been made since the former European food administrator walked out and told news-men that, in view of his own presidential experience in the White House with talking callers, they could never get anything about this conference from him.

Stories were published that Mr. Truman might have offered Mr. Hoover the European feeding job. This is extremely unlikely. Mr. Hoover's age (70) would exclude him from considering or accepting such a vigorous task. My information is that this subject never came up.

The real purpose of the meeting was to discuss who could handle this botched European food job best. Singularly, both the Republican ex-president who did it so successfully last time he won international fame that eventually put him in the White House, and the new Democratic president agreed this time the only agency fitted to undertake it was the Army. It has the shipping facilities, the know-how, and, incidentally, most of the available food for the purpose.

The political phase may not have been discussed between the two. Yet it seemed to me the fairest and cleanest job which could be done along this line in Europe will be the most popular, will gain us the most permanent friendliness, and in this connection, also the Army qualifies best.

The shortage of all foodstuffs in this country today also precludes any reasonable possibility of going through with the new dealers' program of improving the diet of everyone everywhere. Indeed, the improvement of our diet at home has been turned by events into a primary administration responsibility.

Yet I hear new dealers here maintaining that this nation is eating better today than ever in its history—and they can contrive figures to shed a truthful light on this impossibility.

DIET AND HEALTH

Malnutrition, Delinquency

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THERE has been a great deal of discussion recently concerning juvenile delinquency, which in plain language means bad behavior in children. It is well recognized that certain physical disorders may be contributing causes for such bad behavior.

One of the physical disorders, which seems to be especially important, according to Doctor Aloysius S. Church of New York, is malnutrition. For example, it is known that a child who does not get enough vitamin B-complex may be irritable, moody and "mean." With more severe vitamin B deficiency, depression and emotional upsets are frequently noted. Of more than 700 children ranging in age from 11 to 17 years in a home for delinquent boys, four-fifths showed evidences of poor nutrition in various degrees.

Craving for Food

A large number of delinquent children crave food, may steal money in order to buy food, and when they do get it, they eat it rapidly. In institutions, delinquent children often hide food to be eaten later, even when they are assured of three good meals a day. Children talk about food as much as, if not more than, they do about any other subject.

In a study of a number of boys admitted to an institution for delinquent children, it was found that many had meals at home only rarely. Many had meals at hamburger stands and drug stores. Half of the children were underweight and four-fifths had pale, poor muscles and signs of deficiency of vitamins A, B and C.

Behavior Suffers

Any person's conduct will depend, at least in part, upon his physical condition, on how he feels. If children are permitted to be undernourished and underfed it is easily understandable that their behavior is likely to suffer.

Of course, the maintenance of good nutrition depends on seeing to it that children get three well-balanced meals a day, that they have plenty of rest and sleep, adequate exercise, and are not subjected to nervous or mental excitement which will interfere with digestion. Any physical defects present which may interfere with the absorption and use of food by the body must be corrected.

The activities of the mind cannot be separated from those of the rest of the body. If a child is to be a well-rounded personality he must be kept in good physical condition as well as given adequate mental training.

"It's made to order!" Terry said.

thrilled. "Did you tell him you'd take it?"

"Not yet," Raff said. "I told him we'd wait until this project was finished and then talk it over. We'd undoubtedly get a couple of jobs just from estancia owners seeing the Kimberly layout."

Manuelo spoke a few words in Spanish into his radio transmitter, and below them the landing field suddenly became a bright patch of light. He banked neatly and came in for his landing. The station wagon was waiting on the edge of the lighted field. A few minutes later and they were all alighting at the Kimberly front door. On the way up from the field the baroness had complained of a maddening headache. Once in the lighted hallway she made her way to her room. Jim, Raff and Terry gave their coats to a servant just as Brooks came down the stairway carrying two bags. Smilingly he tossed his head toward the baroness still ascending the stairs.

"What'd you do to Roxie?" he said.

His mother laughed quietly.

"You should have seen her a few hours ago," she said. "She was quite the life of the party."

Brooks' dark, handsome face lighted. "Oh, one of those things," he said. "Those daigueros will be the death of her yet."

He glanced at his watch. "It's ten minutes to eight. I'd better be leaving. Did Manuelo wait?"

"Yes," Jim said. "I told him I thought you'd want him to run you down to the station."

Raff hit Brooks a friendly tap on the back.

"I suppose the speech's all finished and polished?"

"Know it by heart," Brooks laughed.

He turned to Terry, who stood next to his mother. "I can't believe you did anything today," he said. "You look as fresh as a flower."

"For an Argentinean your Irish blarney is perfect," Terry said, flushing.

Everyone shook hands with Brooks, wished him well on his campaign tour. Jim lingered a moment at the door as her tall son bent to kiss her, and then the door closed and the sound of the car faded into the night.

Long after Terry was snuggled in her bed Brooks' words kept ringing over and over again in her mind. "You look as fresh as a flower." Beautiful words, really. She felt the color in her cheeks and the mad racing of her heart. How silly, she thought. He's nothing more than a friend to me. He belongs to Corinne—and always will! Finally she dropped off to sleep.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T AID THE ENEMY
NO GREATER indictment can be voted against the bidding of many top-class players than to say they are "new suit crazy." On many an occasion, you see one of them, when partner of a major suit bidder, answer with another suit instead of showing a fit if they hold four cards of it. The hands on which they do this are those which are "just too strong for a mere single raise and not quite strong enough for a double raise which commits the side to a game." So they try to show their precise strength by first bidding another suit and then later showing the fit. And in so doing they help the enemy.

Inside WASHINGTON

Russia Making Plans To Expand Her Fleet | New Agriculture Boss To Shake Up Department

Special to Central Press

● WASHINGTON—Best advice in diplomatic and naval circles indicate that Russia is planning to expand her sea power vastly as soon as she recuperates from her tremendous losses in the German war.

If there is anything tangible left of the German fleet, Russia is expected to demand a large share. Moscow knows that the Soviet Union, like the sprawling empire of the czars before it, is lamentably weak on the high seas.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill revealed recently that Great Britain handed over five of the old American destroyers to Russia, along with other vessels, including an old battleship, shortly after the fall of Italy. And the United States gave the Soviet the cruiser Milwaukee.

This was done because parts of the Italian navy, which Russia demanded in the dark days of the war, were unsuited to deep sea duty.

Now demands already are arising in Parliament that Moscow be asked to return to Britain the ships she received—on the basis that they no longer are useful in the war.

Because of her naval ambitions, some authorities think she would like to engage in the Pacific war against Japan. She could study the American navy, and British navies, acquire the know-how, and generally trim her sails for whatever the future may hold.

● LOOK FOR A SHAKEUP in the Department of Agriculture when Rep. Clinton Anderson becomes the new secretary. Anderson has done a bang-up job as chairman of the House food committee and, as a man with ideas, he has the backing of President Truman to put them into effect.

He has told newsmen privately that his door will be open at all times for questioners and that he plans to make his department one of the most active agencies in the government.

Anderson will have a much larger job to do than his predecessor, Claude R. Wickard, who has been nominated for rural electrification administrator.

Under the new set-up, Anderson will have both the Department of Agriculture and the War Food Administration.

This agency division had split Wickard's authority and focused most attention on Marvin Jones, WFA administrator. Wickard was out in the cold, and in his press relations, he became less and less accessible.

Anderson, however, plans to change all this. It would be no surprise to see him forge to the top in the handling of the nation's critical food problem, complicated by the huge demands being made for supplies for Europe and the world.

● WHEN THE LATE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT chose Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson to be United States counsel in connection with the prosecution of war criminals, he was prompted by the fact that Jackson has long been a student of the problems of international law.

On one occasion, Jackson went at length into the legal pros and cons of such prosecutions as he will direct abroad.

He argued that the legal experts are more prone to hesitate when it comes to actually putting teeth into international law than the common run of the people. He cited many instances of historic record and took the position that enforcement of law through legal processes is necessary to the advancement of international law and order.

Incidentally, John Harlan Amen, who will assist in the prosecutions, is a seasoned lawyer making a career of public service.

Under President Hoover's administration, he was an active prosecutor of anti-trust cases, and for the first time brought ring-leaders of the live poultry racket in New York to justice.

A 16-year-old will be soloist when Dr. Frank Black conducts the Symphony Orchestra Sunday. He is Bobby La Marchina, youthful cellist who became a member of the symphony group last Fall. The youngster's dad is Antonio La Marchina, cellist with the St. Louis Symphony.
The "Blind Date" troupe will stay another week in New York before leaving for Hollywood, thus cancelling a special war bond show which was supposed to have originated from Lawrence, Mass., on Monday. Instead, Mistress-of-Ceremonies Arlene Francis will make several Seventh War Loan Drive appearances in New York that week.
Missouri has an area of 69,674 square miles, ranking the state the 18th largest in area in the United States.

Phil Baker has been given a five-year exclusive contract as star of "Take It Or Leave It," at a substantial increase in salary. The contract, which begins in September, gives Baker's pen-and-pencil sponsor the comedian-quizzmaster's exclusive radio services, but leaves him free for stage and motion picture work. The star's previous contract on the show allowed him the privilege (which he did not exercise) of doing another radio program, as long as sponsor or format of the second show did not conflict. Baker recently completed the motion picture, "Take It Or Leave It," based on the air show, and is due to appear on Broadway next Fall, co-starring with Martha Raye in the musical comedy, "Belle Brodie."

Crop Prospects Looking Up With Arrival Of Warm Weather

WHEAT HARVEST WILL BE GOOD REPORTS SHOW

Ohio Apple Production To Be Very Low; Peach Crop Half Of Normal

Now that Summer appears to have finally arrived (for one day at least) Pickaway county farmers are taking a more optimistic outlook on crop prospects.

Although planting of some crops has been delayed and others suffered from frost, general prospects are good, farm leaders said Thursday. The wheat harvest probably will be good and the future for other crops appears brighter than a few weeks ago.

The Ohio Cooperative Crop Reporting service today predicted a near-record Ohio wheat crop of 54,552,000 bushels this year.

That forecast was exceeded only in 1880 and 1919 and compares with an actual production of 46,805,000 bushels in 1944 and a 10-year average of 40,831,000 bushels, the service said.

At the same time, the service said that Ohio's apple crop would be one of the poorest in history and may reach only 25 percent of normal because frost damage and poor pollination.

"Peaches suffered less frost damage than other Ohio fruits," the report said, "but the crop of 450,000 bushels indicated on June 1 is less than half as large as the 1944 crop."

Sweet cherry production was set at approximately 270 tons and sour cherries at 1,500 tons or about one half of average. Peach production was estimated at 167,000 bushels or about one-third normal.

The service said grain crops generally lost some of their early start because farm work was delayed by abnormally cold, wet weather which also slowed plant growth.

Rye production was placed at 496,000 bushels—the smallest crop since 1938—while the indicated production of oats was put at 48,285,000 bushels. This would be well above the 10-year average.

The service said barley production would be down to about 560,000 bushels as a result of a sharp acreage reduction. Pasture conditions also were behind schedule because of bad weather.

"Frost did some damage to alfalfa and pasture grasses are reported to be heading usually short in some areas," the report said.

Average milk production per cow in Ohio as of June 1 was 20.6 pounds as compared with 19.8 pounds in 1944 while egg production dropped six percent from last year.

The service said egg production in May, 1945, was 1,860 eggs per 100 hens—well above a year ago—but that total egg production dropped from 320,000,000 in May, 1944, to 304,000,000 in May, 1945.

FORD ORDERS REINSTATEMENT OF REPUBLICANS

COLUMBUS, June 14—State Highway Director Perry T. Ford has ordered the reinstatement of seven Republican inspectors who had been fired by the bureau of motor vehicles.

Ford's order followed an informal opinion by Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins, a Republican, that it would be useless to resist mandamus actions brought in behalf of the inspectors to compel him to return them to their jobs.

Ford said he ordered the men returned to their jobs after "careful consideration." He did not refer to Jenkins' opinion.
